Caught Peculiar Fish.

James McDonald of Mira has sent in to the Glace Bay station, the most peculiar fish that was ever seen at Mira. The fish is about 18 inches long, and the widest part is only eight inches in circumference. In color it is like a shark, but the mouth is different, there being a simply a round hole where the mouth should be. The fish is red-blooded and the blood is very plentiful. It was brought to shore by a gull which was attacked by crows on the beach. Many of the old fishermen viewed it, but never saw anything like it before.—Glace Bay Gazette.

Capt. Geele Home.

Capt. Alden C. Geele arrived home Sunday from Bay of Islands, N. F., where he superintended the loading of sch. Tattler with herring. The Tattler on her way home has been in company of Capt. James Frellick.

Sagona Freeing Vessels.

Hon. J. C. Crosbie received a message from Capt. Kennedy of the Sagona this morning saying that the ship was at South End last night and had broken the ice so as to free the sch. D. Young, and afterwards towed her to Seldom. There are three vessels with fish cargoes at Fogo, and another at Twillingate, while there is also a Canadian vessel with a cargo of herring jammed in Green Bay. The Fogota is lending a hand in freeing those vessels, but unless the ice is moved off from the land by a strong wind the task will be a difficult one.—St. John's, N. F., Herald, December 30.

HALIFAX GOOD FRESH FISH MART

Fresh fish is meeting with a splendid market and is in good supply, says the Halifax Herald of Saturday. There are arrivals almost every day from the banks, where cod and haddock is reported to be in abundance. Twenty-eight thousand pounds of this fish was brought into port recently by the fishing schooner A. Hubley and 5,000 lbs. was landed by the schooner I Wonder Y yesterday. Various other fares were sold to the fish merchants by fishing craft also during the past few days.

The stormy weather has greatly retarded the fishing industry, many vessels having to put in for harbor, but the fishermen are looking for a good season.

Some chicken halibut is being caught in the vicinity of the Bay of Fundy and shipments are being received from Digby daily by fish merchants. This variety of fish is being sold at 15 to 18 cents per pound retail, by local dealers.

There is a good supply of frozen herring on the market. These are retailing at 30 cents per dozen. Haddock and cod is being sold to the housekeeper at seven cents per pound.

So well have one of the Irish trawlers been doing on the banks during the past summer, that two more are being sent out from Ireland to prosecute the industry. The first of the Irish vessels fishing last summer started her trawling with an old barge to deposit her catch in and soon had splendid results. The vessel has made arrangements to sell her fares during the winter to a Lockeport fish firm.

NEWS OF FLEET AT BELLEORAM

December 21.—Just now there is not much stir on here about anything; but a few weeks ago a school of herring struck along here, which seemed to put life in the place. Unfortunately the fishing lasted only a week, from which some made good wages.

Two of our banking masters took a run to Rencontre to buy herring for bait. They secured a hundred thousand between them, and were gone only a few days. A small schooner from Channel loaded at Anderson's Cove with herring for the winter codfishery.

The fishing fleet of this place is being put in order for the next fishing voyage. They are all looking quite trim in their new coat of paint. We don't hear of any men being shipped yet for the winter fishery, and it is currently reported that there will be no wages given, as all crews will be on shares.—Western Star, Dec. 30.

Good Stock.

Sch. Bay State, Capt. Archie McLeod, stocked $1949 on her recent haddocking trip, her crew sharing $300 clear to a man.
